PLEA

For Independence of People of the Philippine Islands is Made at Conference.

MOHONK LAKE, N. Y., Oct. 24.—The Lake Mohonk Conference of Friends of the Indians and Other Dependent Peoples heard a plea for the independence of the Philippines, voiced by Dr. John R. McDill, of Milwaukee, who returned from the islands last year after spending twelve years as surgeon and professor of surgery in the University of the Philippines. Dr. McDill said that signs of dissatisfaction among the Filipinos were unmistakable and asked:

"Is this country prepared to fight another country for the islands, or again to take up arms against the Filipinos themselves should they revolt?"

The recent report of slavery in the Philippines he characterized as "official calumny" and its treatment by the press as "hysterical." "True slavery conditions described," he said, "are far worse in this country."

"Imposition of American sovereignty by force of arms," he asserted, "was a grievous mistake. The policy of the last fifteen years has been a corollary of that blunder."

"The only solution of the problem is the application of right principles. American people are not correctly informed as to Filipino character, industrial and political capability, and as to their determined opposition to American rule. Americans in the island are all, more or less, dependent on the government, and information from them is controlled by a censorship of subservience and fear."

"Public opinion, as we know it, does not exist in the Philippines. When dealing with conditions with which it is familiar the American public in the end generally decide political matters fairly but it cannot act intelligently concerning a foreign people with which it is unfamiliar, guided by reports which come from a limited number of persons, and which are a medley of inconsistencies."

"A conservative estimate that eighty per cent of our people and ninety-five per cent of our capital has too much to do on this continent for years to come to ever take any interest in the Philippines, and any argument is welcomed that justifies our conduct as a nation."

"The facts as to homogeneity, language, literacy and desires for independence are all in favor of the Filipinos. The religious denominations and investors have nothing to fear from a change of government. Filipinos have been Roman Catholics for 300 years."

Compare the phenomenal record of the British through friendly co-operation with the same race in the Federated Malay States, which did not cost England a farthing or a life, with what has happened to us in the Philippines after employing an army of 120,000 men for six years and expending from six hundred thousand to one billion dollars to date.

Enough treasures to build three Panama canals. We have given the Filipinos the best we have and paid for it with their money. All our large hopes and plans for their industrial development from Taft to the present time has total lack of co-operation, open hostility and evoked the slogan: "We prefer poverty and freedom to prosperity and subjection."

"A popular and deep seated prejudice of any people is not to be disregarded because it cannot stand our tests of reason or evidence. It must be reckoned with. Asia is awakening so rapidly that Occidentals will soon find no foothold tenable among its 500 millions of people."

We have already been twice exposed to international complications in which the Philippines would be first attacked, and the general commanding the native constabulary has just reported officially, and no American has a truer touch on the pulse of the Filipino people, that signs of revolt among the Filipinos are unmistakable and are due to our failure to declare a policy in regard to independence."

"Their present political status is so improved that Filipinization of the service can now occur as rapidly as their wise men advise, and our separation of ourselves from their affairs should soon come about without damage to them or loss of dignity to us."
